

Haunted Ghosts

By Gabo

The superheroes had their babies, and their babies were 8 and 7. They were walking on a street and they found the neighbor's house. It was a haunted house. Out of nowhere their dad jumped out. And started yelling, "You can't go in this house, it's too dangerous, it could collapse on you in any moment." The little kid said, "Please dada, please dad, can you explore this house to make sure it's safe?" The kid's dad promised that he will explore the house when they are sleeping.

So, the Dad called the rest of the superheroes, and they started to explore the house. They went inside the house, when they got in, the darker it was the more unsafe it was. Fred fell through a broken board. "We need to get our leader back", said the superheroes. 5 minutes after the leader fell through, a ghost jumped out of nowhere. Henry said, "that's it! We're going back." So, they walked back. They jumped into the hole that the leader fell through. They got their leader back, but a ghost jumped out of a wall! They fought the ghost with daggers and swords. They ran out of the house. They went back to their houses. They told to their kids, "It's not safe." The kids said "Awwhhh". Their Dad said, come to the backyard with me. "Dad you built us a tree house?!" They got a hundred dollars instead of a hundred trophies and medals.

THE END

Gabo, The Author